

Debbie's Insides

A deep dive into the heart and mind of your friendly, neighborhood author.

Hello friends,

First, I want to share my appreciation to you for being a subscriber. From my warm, beating chest organ to yours, thank you!

Second, I had exciting news last week. If you follow me on Instagram, I posted the thrilling moment I unboxed my first shipment of books. Amazement. Chills. Better than chocolate! I cannot wait to share Necromancy the Musical with you and with the world.

The main character, CeCe LeBlanc, is a drama geek by day, necromancer detective by night. She meets leading man Zach Wren at drama camp. Here is a short blip of their introduction:

“Can we start over?” I stick out my hand, my silver nail polish glittering in the sun. “I’m CeCe LeBlanc.”

“Zach Wren.” The warmth of his smile could melt butter.

We shake, and something passes through me, a flow of electricity. My smile freezes as my body heats, a buzz traveling my veins. Surprise lights his expression; he feels it too. Taking back his hand, he wipes it on his pants.

I don’t know much about Zach Wren, but I know he has magic.

Necromancy the Musical debuts September 26, 2023. <loud cheers and squeals> There will be upcoming news on preorders, a book launch, and – best of all – giveaways. So please stay tuned.

Until next time,

Debbie out!

<https://twitter.com/definitelydebh>

@debbert8

definitely.deb.h@gmail.com

<http://debbiehibbert.com>